

Amie Oliver

Arcadia Lost Series

12

My creative practice has been consumed by an obsession with water. I'm inspired by its power, beauty and profound impact on life as we know it. My work, like the weather, tests boundaries, edges and borders. It is made of and inspired by the oceans and atmosphere: both new frontiers we share and personal boundaries we embrace. Each impacts our senses and has the capacity to erase what divides us.

Amie Oliver grew up near the Mississippi River. Its presence and the relevance of water was amplified in her work during her time in New Orleans prior to relocating to Virginia in the late 1980s. Crossing the James River daily and experiencing the weather patterns and impact of rivers during fellowships in France, Austria, Germany and Tibet have inspired her creative practice on a multitude of levels.

www.bluecoup.org

Amie Oliver - "Arcadia Lost Series"

Ink wash on polypropylene paper

- | | | |
|--------------------------------|---------|--------|
| 1. A Current of Blue Isles | 23 x 60 | $2700 |
| 2. A Current of River Blues | 23 x 60 | $2700 |
| 3. A Current from a Blue Cloud | 23 x 60 | $2700 |

