River Stream Tributary

"My abstract acrylic paintings are candied, poured, and crusted interpretations of patterns pulled from the waterways of Virginia. The visual language used in my works references a resource that connects us all, that is precious, and is in peril - our water. Waterway maps, markmaking created by erosion, and the living fluidity of rivers are source materials. The element vital to every being, water, is a tangible example of the message of the Bluecoup Project."

In addition to exhibiting her abstract acrylic works regionally, Jessica is a tireless environmental advocate and activist devoted to the protection of Virginia's waterways.
